SAYS DEPUTY INTELLIGENCE CHIEF'S

WARNING IS LATE

DAVE GARROWAY WAS SEEN ON THE TELEVISION SCREEN SEATED IN THE STUDIO.

GARROWAY: "I'm looking in amazement at a story off the UPI wire, and I just can hardly believe my eyes. After all that's gone on, all the things that have been said about this. Washington, December 21:--The deputy United States intelligence chief warns against underestimating Russia's economic and military ambitions, and predicts the Soviet Union can meet the ambitious industrial goals set by the Kremlin. He's warning against Russia? Yes. I mean, I thought it had been done, but I guess not. It's so late to do a thing like that, you know, when the horse has left the barn about five years ago. Not too late, but awful late."
